Disclaimers

- All the prices and savings described in this guide were valid as of moment of writing and may change at any time.
- Please note that I am not a professional writer. Please let me know if any parts of this guide are not clear enough and need more work
- If you merely laugh at me for going into that much trouble for saving only couple of bucks for every domain registration, you should not be reading this guide

Registering/Transferring Domain Names at Rock Bottom Prices
Important! This guide describes how to register, transfer, and renew domain names at discount prices. Please follow this guide **precisely** and let the author know of any discrepancy, or if any questions.

Intro. Your deeply discounted domain registration/transfer/renewal price arrives from two components:

1. Using discount (coupon) link. This will be reflected immediately in you cart when completing your order.
2. Receiving rebate on your purchase. This will be deposited into your rebates account and later into your PayPal account.

For the 1st it is important to use the correct discount link. If you use hosting discount link why buying domain names you may end up paying higher price at check out. For the 2nd it is important to login into your deals rebates account and click the discount link before completing **each** order.

In theory, you could use the discount without rebate or rebate without discount (i.e. only #1 or only #2), but obviously you will realize the best savings when using the both.

So let's go.

Step 1. Create account at Deals Rebates if you don't already have one. Go to login/registration page, fill up New Members section, click "register", and confirm the account by clicking the link you will receive in verification email. Using AOL email accounts is not recommended (people have reported problems before regarding not receiving the verification email). Choose "USA" if your country is not on the list.

Step 2. After registering and confirming your account (by clicking the link you will receive in email), go to login/registration page and login into your account. Then go to GoDaddy Deals Rebates page. This page should look approximately like screenshot below. Note the "Hi <your name>" in the right corner indicating that you have logged. You can also click save icon to pin this page to your account so it would show in your account right after logging in (I do have it pinned as you will see in one of screenshots later).

Note: during limited promotional periods the $4.73 link may work like $2.33 or $0.78 after rebate ($2.99 or $0.99 before rebate) and limited to 1 domain only.

The discount price ($5.99) will NOT show in domain search:

 DEWDEWDEWDEW.COM
is available. Just $12.99* Add OR Express Buy

But it WILL show after it is added to shopping cart:

(Not So Important) If you do not reside in US the prices may display in your local currency, but you can switch the display currency at the bottom of the page and you will be paying in USD regardless the display currency:

Step 4. Complete your registration/transfer/renewal order and proceed through GoDaddy check out as usual. Your shopping cart prices should be the same as advertised on the screenshots above (plus 18 cent ICANN fee on applicable TLDs). If you are placing multiple orders, make sure to click the discount link from Deals Rebates for **each** order you place – this is important for proper rebate tracking.

Step 5. Few days later (sometimes up to a week) you should be able to see some pending rebates balance in your Deals Rebates account. Please note that the screenshots below are taken on the same date and show **different** rebates in various stages. Rebate amount will obviously depend on the sale amount and product(s) purchased.

How long it takes for rebate to become approved (i.e. payable) usually depend on the merchant (in this case GoDaddy), and the refund policies for the particular product. As a general rule, usually the rebates becomes payable next month AFTER you can't return the product for refund. I understand, this is made so the people can't get rebate and then cancel their order.
